Winners cited in writing contest

The Arts Department of the GFWC/Appomattox Junior Woman's Club and American Federal Savings and Loan are pleased to announce the winners of the Creative Writing Contest in the Poetry Classification. This project was sponsored to promote interest and involvement in creative writing by providing an opportunity for talented students to gain visibility by entering their work in competition.

Winners in the Senior High Division are: first place, "In The Valley of The Shadow" by Bobby Carter; second place, "To All Mrs. Keens" by Vivian Seay; and third place, "Too Much Homework" by Richard Baxter. The winners in the Junior High Division were : first place, "This World of Mine" by David Wingfield; second place, "Beyond the Sound of Guns" by Chuck Wilkerson; and third place, "Midnight Stroll" by Barry Phelps.

On Nov. 23, winners in each division were awarded Passbook Savings Accounts of $35, $25, and $15 respectively by Mike Weiss of American Federal Savings and Loan. Sheila Webb, representing the GFWC/Appomattox Junior Woman's Club, presented the students with ribbons. In addition to the passbooks and ribbons, the first two entries wil be submitted by the Jr. Woman's Club to the VFWC/ Alice Kyle District Arts Festival in the Spring of 1984. Winners on the district level may progressd to competition on the state level.

Bill Sherrod, editor of the Times-Virginian; Frances Abbitt, assistant editor of the Times-Virginian; Sandy Wilbun, a former English teacher served on the panel of judges during the contest. What I want is a New Car. I don't want to give you any money down. I want monthly payments lower than bank payments with money down. I want to drive the car 3 years, bring it back, give you the keys, pick out a new car and drive away. Also, I don't want to be responsible for the value of the old car.

Can you help me?
